

The Guitar

(This is a true story)

So I am sitting on the plane to Sundance
And just by chance

A miracle is assigned to sit next to me
She wore a flashy blond wig you see
But as I watched her limp with confidence-
I soon understood why
She talked and talked about hating to fly.

So

I assured her she wasn't going to die
And to that she made a long reply

She said:

“Seven years ago I had a stroke
And the radiation to fight the cancer was no joke.”

They said:

“Lady, you only have a month, and if you do live longer you will be sterile”

However

Seven years later, she is the proud parent of a boy named, Darryl
Cheating death was her biggest heist

In her words:

“It was all designed to bring me closer to Christ*”

Meeting Mrs. Miracle and seeing The Guitar

Reminds me of how insignificant They are.

This film is about a woman listening to They

And whatever They have to say.

I lost my father to Cancer

And They came to me too, with crazy answers

I feel this film from plot to tone

Its melodic nature had me in a familiar zone

Amy and Amos are right

Music can give us great elation

But if we let it enter our souls

It can be our salvation.

Most Memorable Hip Hop Quote from The Guitar:

“I got a question, it's serious as Cancer, who can keep the average dancer...” –Eric B. &
Rakim – I Know You Got Soul

By Velo

Hiphopbattle.com

Sundance Film Festival 2008

1/20/2008

*Note: For the purpose of this review Christ and Music are one in the same!